With almost 30 minutes of content on the test server, it's clear that DICE isn't wasting any time...CHENNAI: Ten years ago, a doctor named Ashwani Gujral got a shock. While carrying out a routine eye test for a girl, he discovered that there was no colour in her eyes. A routine ERG examination revealed that they were blind.Gujral went through a battery of tests to confirm his suspicion. The girl had an extremely high cholesterol level in the blood. Her diabetes was uncontrolled. She was obese and suffered from gout. Her blood pressure was also not at normal levels."My first reaction was that it is not possible to be so obese and have poor blood pressure. But my experience in working with blood pressure for 10 years gave me a different feeling," says Gujral. He goes on to tell TOI, "The first thing I did was start counselling the patient."Gujral is still counselling the girl. Their next step is to get her weighed regularly. But some of the biggest challenges lie in persuading her to go for regular exercise. "We have to help her understand that she has to go to gym to do her daily body exercise. But convincing her to start exercising is another challenge. We try to put it into perspective of getting lost in the world of gadgets and not concentrating on exercise," says Gujral.Experts say that during a patient's initial visits at the end of August, the first step should be to control diabetes, blood pressure and cholesterol to prevent any long-term damage. Gujral says, "One week is not enough to assess if all the factors are controlled. If the patient is a diabetic, the patient should be asked about sugar level in the urine at least once a week."Diabetes is often overlooked during the initial stages. The long term consequences are something to worry about later.Q: How to Set Sitecore field value using xConnect How can i set value of the sitecore field using xConnect. Field value is not saved
