From the kmsnano (version v9.0 final) iE. Kmsnano V14 Final.rar 29 23 35golt seems like everyone is taking a few moments to thank their lucky stars that the 2016 Red Sox season didn't end with a Game 163 loss. Fortunately, there is more baseball to come as three teams still have games left on their schedules. The last regular season contest that is up for grabs is in the American League East with the Yankees and Blue Jays meeting up on Thursday. No matter who ends up in first place in the division, the AL East will have a big winner come October. This is also one of the toughest divisions to figure out who is going to win the World Series. The Cubs finished last year on an absolute tear and have a chance to get back to the playoffs this year with a full-fledged re-build. The Yankees have always been a juggernaut, but their youth movement and injury issues have exposed them to allow the Red Sox to sneak in. The Jays have been the wild card for years now and haven't had the success they were hoping for. While there are too many moving pieces to get a conclusion to this season, one team is destined to be on the doorstep of winning the whole thing.
