Jake: Canadian militia leader who voiced support of Srebrenica massacre wants judges to deny his freedom and deport him back to U.S. Christian Giese | January 22, 2018 This week, members of a religious group known as the Hutaree have been arrested on charges of conspiring to kill and maim police officers in Michigan. The group has links to an incident in 2014 where an FBI agent was murdered, having been shot as he was returning home from his daughter's christening. The FBI suspected the group were involved in an act of domestic terrorism. Last year, a Canadian militia leader voiced support for the Srebrenica massacre, an atrocity in which Bosnian Muslim civilians were butchered by Serbian forces in 1995. On the anniversary of the atrocity, the leader of a religious group, Scott Anderiesen, who calls himself a "prophet," made his Twitter account public. Anderiesen has links to the Hutaree, a group now under investigation for links to the deadly shootings in Michigan, according to the Toronto Sun. In September 2016, Anderiesen published a book entitled The Storm of War: The League of the Just in the Land of North America. The book "asserts that the United States and Canada are 'militia states' controlled by a 'League of the Just' in league with other countries including Russia and the United Kingdom," according to Al Jazeera. In the book, Anderiesen calls for protests to demand the implementation of a Canadian-style "Christian constitution" through "civil disobedience." Anderiesen said the United States "is going down hill," and if the government was successful, the U.S. would be "wiped off the map" and Canada would become part of "one world order" ruled by a "League of the Just." Anderiesen told the Ottawa Citizen that Srebrenica was an "unfortunate" event. "I don'

Netscape Navigator is a free web browser available for Windows, Mac OS and Linux platforms. It comes in 32 and 64-bit versions, which you can download for free at the Mozilla website. How to install and use it: If you have an old license of Netscape Navigator, you can easily download a new version from the website of the original developer, The Mozilla Foundation, which offers a free download. If you don't have an old license, you can register it on the website for free. Clicking the button labeled "Get a New License" and follow the onscreen instructions. Once the installation is completed, you can open Netscape Navigator, by double-clicking the downloaded file or by pressing the icon on your desktop. To get the browser up and running, you should tap the "Add-ons" button on the toolbar and select the "Search Engines" option. There, you will be able to choose your favorite search engine among the list of available ones. Note: For security reasons, the Search engines window should be opened only after Netscape Navigator has been fully installed. You might want to close it after. For more details, read this article. Once you've selected your favorite search engine and have tapped the "OK" button, you'll see a new window from where you can control your search and bookmarks. When you select a keyword, Netscape Navigator shows the results from the selected engine. You can also use the "Open Directory" button to browse to a particular website. Opening a page using the browser should be as simple as going to the address bar of your web browser and tapping on the desired address. An additional search options is also available from the drop-down menu from the "Help" button. To open the browser's Help page, hit the Ctrl+F keys. You will see a long list of options and tips, which includes the basic and advanced search options available from the browser. To turn the browser's ads off, you can hit the Ctrl+Z keys. To switch between the tabs, you must open the browser's drop-down list, and select one of the tabs. You can also use the Ctrl+Tab keys to cycle between them. You can also activate the window's mini-browser from the navigation bar, by using the Tabs button.
