What's new in Fifa 22:

- New move system.

All players have been updated with the new addition to the Prozent passing system. Now, when you dribble the ball the player you are controlling will make suitable movements. One rule remained the same: When you receive the ball and press a direction on the joystick with the left thumb, the players' body moves, and your pass is more easily received.

Improvements have been made for passing and dribbling.

- Thinking about how much time each defender needs to attempt to stop the ball? Using touch decision, the more realistic probability about how long it needs to change a defender's mind. The logic behind this is becoming more and more realistic.
- No way to force a pass, using the analogue stick and pressure are both on how the pass is created. You can't force the ball.
- Displaying the distance that your opponent is.

The defending system has improved. When you win the ball you can move forwards and backwards. While this doesn't affect the combat, the system has improved.

- In the defence shooting setup. If a defender misses the ball, your team moves it further away from the goal. Now, improving shot confidence.
- In the shot selection. Now, you can lock on defenders or other players in the area to improve your shot accuracy.
- The ball skill attacks.

Here's what people have been saying:

- "The transition from defence to attack is much simpler than on previous games."
- "From midfield to defensive is simple."
- "The passing is much clearer."
- "You can see far enough down the touchline."
