The next day, the hospital started to get more notifications of a viral illness. The head of the hospital now calls Star, and asks her to check on the new patient. Brian accompanies Star to the hospital, and they are both surprised to see that the hospital has a new wing for patients with a parainfluenza infection. These patients have to remain in the hospital for a few days to ensure that the infection doesn't come back. Some years later, Jeannie finally got a chance to meet Michael in Taiwan while he was doing post-graduate at the veterinary school. The director of the school was surprised to see Jeannie and he invited her to the campus. Michael was amazed at Jeannie and wanted to keep her company. The two soon started dating and fell in love. With Michael's help, Jeannie was able to get a job in a veterinary clinic in Taipei. This week's episode begins during a meeting between the man who sold the movie rights to He and the director of the movie. The man who sold the rights to the movie is also the president of the company that owns the rights to the original manga. The director is trying to convince the president of the company to release his movie. He promises to release It Started With a Kiss 2 (; wo wn zuj zh) as soon as they finish the remaining filming for the movie. The president only has 30 minutes to make his decision. Seventeen-year-old Mark-chan (; Lyrical Lonely Star) is a manga and anime fan. He believes that his favorite manga character Star was based on Prince Ragni. Ever since he was a kid, he gets in trouble for watching Prince and his friends in It Started with a Kiss. Recently, when he started to feel sick and his father did not pick him up from a music class, he decided to stay home and try to contact Prince. When he's about to give up, he meets an old man who gives him a black dog and tells him that he has to bring Star back to his world. Mark also meets a boy named Marco who is really Star's doppelganger and Marco's friend, Joe, who was forced to move to the United States for school, is also Star's doppelganger. He tries to convince Star to return to her dimension but Star has doubts about moving her mission.

Bensil is getting a bit wobbly, can't he ever just go home? Getting discouraged at Bensil's constant lack of progress, his stepmother transfers him to the prison that they have their own doctor. What to the newcomer has never seen before, is a pattern of treatment - and that treatment is curing the patients of a disease with a kiss. You must find out how to cure the inmates of Gaplin Prison. Who is the doctor who can cure the inmates of Gaplin Prison? And how do you kiss a person whose disease you can't even see? A couple of hot guys are arrested by the police. While their accuser is being interviewed, the couple finds themselves at the same dinner party as the guy's boss, who is a gay. The gay boss is so intoxicated that he ends up kissing one of the hot guys. It turns out the other hot guy is a newly recruited police officer who has been a cop for only a few months. He is in police academy. The wife of the hot guy is not impressed with the gay boss, and she suspects he may be involved in the crime. Yet to the hot guy's defense, he was just kissing the man in a drunken state of mind. The nurses at the clinic gave Brian, Jordan and Craig IVs and started them on antibiotics. Within a few hours Brian and Jordan were doing well and went home. After a few days, Brian and Jordan were feeling much better. They both felt slightly sick whenever they got back to the classroom for the first two weeks. Jordan's parents were concerned when he did not seem to get better in the two weeks after they were home, but Jordan was not doing any better. 5ec8ef588b
