
Wargame 1942 Cheat V1.92.23 __HOT__

Wargaming is an expensive hobby. I can play 1500 hours of war of the west alone for $100 and after that I've only a few more games per year to play to get $100. I think you're mistaken in thinking that cheaters would pay $100+ per game for a spoiling service. It is simply not feasible. An honest player will only play 2000 hours of war of the west per year, averaging to $75 per game and after that he has 2000 games to play. The hacker must commit to being around for 2000 hours before he can earn $100 in $1 a minute, not including any new equipment purchased, not even the cheapest tank for the $100. These users claim to have equipment worth of over $1000, not including any of the new tanks. Each day they have to be online, they have to be committed. They would need a dedicated computer, a dedicated Internet connection, and a dedicated player which have to be active on a regular basis. Each time a player is defeated by the hackers, they need to find a new user, a new computer, and a new Internet connection. A good hacker needs at least 2000 hours of war of the west per year. Wouldn't money be a factor for them? It does not seem so to me. They are paid by the hour, not per game and they would be way more productive if they had lots of sources of income. Spending 0.01 per minute of casual time is a good time frame to aim at. 1 minute a hour is 1,000 minutes per day. 1,000,000 minutes in a year is less than 4,000 hours, which is the annual commitment of a normal player. At 3$ per hour in wargaming, a hacker would earn $900 per year, way less than the amount they would have to pay for the travel, equipment, time and even time of their regular job. Cheating is not about money, it's about prolonging the win/loss streak of a certain player. One may argue that it's a matter of personal pride, but I'd say pride is a minimal factor for people who spend all day online and have dedicated their life to wargaming. A pride-driven individual would rather ruin his personal and professional reputation than surrender.

Wargame 1942 Cheat V1.92.23

It is easy for the smart players to defeat the players that play by the rules. It takes a genius to defeat the geniuses who cheat. This is why people don't often successfully break into the cheaters' circles. In the past, the cheaters usually try to use some simple game mechanics to defeat the "cheater detection". But that is no longer enough. Cheats are just there for the players who cheat. For the players that play by the rules, they are just there to help. A cheat or cheater tool alone can only make the game boring if it is used by everyone. The people that still play by the rules in a cheating community can't enjoy the game. They see everything that the cheater does and it can eventually turn them off from playing the game. 1/1 players can never be wrong. There are even those cheaters out there that believe that they are flawless at cheating. However, it is all too easy for a cheater to get caught out. If they aren't already in jail, they go to the "free trial", but then... So cheaters want to win. From their perspective, they want the game to be fair so they can win. Players that cheat want to not lose. From their perspective, they want the game to be fair so they can win. Give me a break. It's pathetic that the only valid reply to someone is to say "Yeah I'd love to help" or "I do like games with cheats." The only real goal of people playing this game is to make each other feel bad, and to make the developers think they have a fanbase. It's actually a little disappointing that the only people that play this game seem to be the spammers and cheaters, although most of the cheaters are americans. 5ec8ef588b
