But, I am not sure how to use it. I am a bit confused on how to use it to get the formula I am looking for. But, I do know what formula I need to get. The formula I need is $Df(x,y) = Df(x,f(x)) + Df(x,f(y))$ I need the derivatives, which I know how to solve. But, I am not sure how to apply the product rule. How would I get the right hand side to match the formula I have provided. A: we have the following properties of the function $f(0) = 0$ and $Df(x,0)=Df(0,f(x))=0$ as a consequence $\frac{d}{dt}\bigg|_{t=0}\int_0^t f(u) du = f(0) = 0$ and $\frac{d}{dt}\bigg|_{t=0}\int_0^t f(t) du = f(0)+\int_0^t f'(u) du = Df(0,f(x))+\int_0^t Df(u,f(u))du$ and finally $Df(x,y)=Df(x,f(x))+Df(x,f(y))$ by the chain rule. DLC Wondering what you can do with it? DLC(Downloadable Content) is content that is used to extend the existing gameplay of the game.
