I have tried the following code but is not working `df_test['ID_test'] = df_test.apply(lambda x: '7' if x == '0,0,0' else x)` A: Use `str.strip()`: `df_test['ID_test'] = '7'+ df_test.ID_test.str.strip('0,0,0')`

Museum of Genocide Victims The Museum of Genocide Victims is a museum in Sveti Martin, Slovenia, founded in October 2001. The museum is located in the former Slovene Army barracks built in 1873. It is located at the site where the Nazis during World War II rounded up and deported 7,200 Jews from the area of Golnik in April 1941. In March 1947, the Communist authorities set up the as the museum. It was part of a social and cultural complex from 1984 to 1993, when it was relocated to the present location and opened to the public in 2001. The museum's collections consist of 1,700 objects, such as weapons, personal belongings and photographs of the victims. Exhibits, such as a salt cellar and children's clothes, document the wartime lives of victims. Many objects were taken from victims' possessions after the war. USSR 2021: Sanovite Adventures is an amazing and unique game. The game is similar to Elite Dangerous but in a sandbox and strategy game type setting. It has a top down view of the landmass of Sanov which you can travel to and explore and interact with its different factions and resources. The game features customizable ships and we can buy and sell items and resources to other factions, craft weapons, armor and other equipment and fix broken systems. The atmosphere of the game is also reminiscent of Space Trading Company by Planetside. The factions have different agendas and goals that I did not see in any other Sandbox game. Overall this is a fantastic game with a very simple interface and excellent graphics and soundtrack. I give it an overall of 9/10 for its presentation, gameplay and atmosphere.

Catch the flag and reach the end of the level! Control any type of car at the correct time, get on the tracks and avoid the traffic that they generate, and collect a specific amount of flags before time runs out. But be careful, cars may spawn from the traffic when you don't avoid them and the level will advance automatically, but it will end after you complete a track and there will be no cars in it. But you can always restart from the beginning, start on a different track, or "skim" the cars to avoid their spawn. Play a short demo of this game that supports touch and has buttons for Mouse and Keyboard Climb the ropes and reach the goal! In this game, you will have to climb up the rope using the spacebar. Don't forget to collect the coins, you can add them to your energy bar to keep climbing. But watch out for the spikes, they can slow you down. Play a short demo of this game that supports touch and has buttons for Mouse and Keyboard Push back a sticky door and get inside! In this game, you will have to push back a door with the spacebar. But be careful, pushing too far will cause the door to open! Inside there are many items that you can pick up to gain some points. But be careful, there are many mines in the level and shooting them can cause some doors to open! You can also use the 3D model of the door to push it back. But if a mine shoots the 3D model, you'll lose

What's new in Tumbleweed Destiny:

A community of writers who create their own personal game stories. Fri, 09 Dec 2015 20:36:34 +0000en-US hourly 1 right girl, though 08 Oct 2015 09:45:42 +0000 my past visual novel adventures I have encountered many different people when I hit new places/places I feel closer to a new friend. I have moved across the country for work for example, and at some point or another I meet new people from all over the place and with some stroke of luck I will meet a person who my characters open up to. Perhaps it's even a cooler crowd to be around, a group of people in anime, fanfiction, or even just music. I will always go for people like this and as I've focused more on my visual novel writer career I've been focusing more on the stuff that allows me to explore the characters and its growth and development. The idea is all about this, it's about your characters and how they relate to other characters. This is the case of when episode #1 at least has been released for the original YataLilou story. We have now had the chance to read through this episode, hopefully helped navigate the characters even further from the first glance reveal. This is very satisfying when its finished, adding more to your work. After each chapter is released then the community will actively work on responding with their own story taking all the notes they received on the reactions as well as their knowledge of how they would make their own story. There is a wide array of emotional responses to this and a lot of genuine discussion topics have been presented. HinaMe, for example, has wanted her own evil "enemy" character ever since she initially got this project going. Many other people feel the same way and seeing what our intended characters are up to now can be very satisfying. I am absolutely enjoying this, and I hope to introduce a lot of people with my offerings to this visual novel. You can check out my VN here. We are going to have new chapters in the coming weeks.]]>

CopperSpider is a platform puzzle adventure game for both PC and web browsers. Copper Spider is a title that has the potential to provide the players with a unique adventure with an atmospheric world, unique gameplay and puzzles. CopperSpider's story takes place in the secluded world of Earth. The environment was designed in such a way so as to facilitate the development of a unique story world. It contains a deep story with many interesting characters. CopperSpider starts by offering the player to solve puzzles of diverse complexity that are presented in six different biomes. For each biome, the player has several levels with different degrees of difficulty. The game introduces several different enemies that range from worms, scorpions, poisonous spiders, to vicious bosses. The ability to solve puzzles is entirely up to the players. The choices that the player makes through the level select screen determine the difficulty of the puzzles. To win, the player has to go through each puzzle with his bare hands. There are no hints, no timers, no lives, no achievements, just pure puzzle play. The main features of CopperSpider are: - Puzzles on the level basis - Six different environments - Original soundtrack - Deep story - Atmospheric world - Boss battles with unique mechanics - Original style art - Original monsters - Original weapons - Original puzzles - Special items

CopperSpider is a platform puzzle adventure game for the PC and web browsers. It is published by Grundlage Games, a web-based game studio based in Stockholm, Sweden. There are no additional animations, or interactive 3D objects in the game. CopperSpider is meant to be played on the web browser (IE, Firefox, Chrome, Safari and Opera). It also has an in-browser version, which can be played by using the Player and Instrument on-screen, or the mouse cursor. This game's web design is built on a sprite based programming technology called ClearLines. It's essentially a hybrid between Flash and HTML5. The sprites are therefore bigger than normal GIFs or JPGs. It also enables us to support as much interactivity as we want. For example, we can tell a character to jump, and he actually jumps and flies. We can also tell a character to move faster, and he moves faster. A lack of support in browsers, however, means that there is currently only limited support for the 2-D action in CopperSpider. We hope to add support for 3-D puzzles in coming
