Identity is a new card game for Windows, Mac and Linux by Matthew Gardner. Two to six players play as ordinary people with extraordinary power—to forge or destroy. Identity is light and casual and is ideal for any player! Includes: Party to Play Game Play Identity's gameplay allows two to six players to play a cooperative game of high adventure. Identity is a highly casual card game with unique co-operative play. Two players can also take on a game of pure bluff and deceit. Identity Modules Identity allows players to evolve their characters with the purchase of Modules. These Modules contain Powercards, which are unique cards that change play as the game continues. Extra Play Rewards are unlocked after you complete all of the Cogs—decreasing the number of Cogs you need to unlock a Play Reward. Players can also Earn Experience points by completing each Play Reward. Finally, after the game ends, your player's character will face off against a new Sifting deck in a two player Showdown. Two players will then be able to replay the Showdown two times each, allowing them to swap characters when they reach certain milestones and obtain a second Trophy. Identity Theme Parks Identity Theme Parks are the twist on the normal Identity gameplay that will give the game an entirely new dimension. Identity Theme Parks enhance the playability of the entire game by introducing static Play Areas, Cogs and Event cards which further immerse players in a unique cooperative experience, while also allowing for the Play Rewards to become an exclusive resource at each park. Identity Play Rewards When Identity is complete, you will want to trade in the Cogs (planks) you've collected for Play Rewards. These Play Rewards give your players XP Boosts and/or additional Cogs to work towards a Character Upgrade. Currently, there are three Play Rewards that provide incremental character upgrades and can be gained by collecting Cogs: Note: There are a total of six Play Rewards. The Cogs are only shared between Character Classes and the first Play Reward can be unlocked even without having completed all of the other Play Rewards. Once you have unlocked all of the Play Rewards, you'll be able to start collecting Cogs again to upgrade your character. Identity Rewards Once you've unlocked all of the Play Rewards, you'll be able to start collecting Cogs to unlock more Play Rewards! Each time you finish playing a module, you'll unlock a Play Reward and you'll

She lives an illusioned life and has forgotten the world outside her husband, kids and home. Take on the role of the housewife and make sure the house is maintained, she lives to keep her husband happy. Learn how the world changes for an abused person. She believes that he only beats her when she disappoints him. Get deep inside the functioning psyche of a victim of abuse. FACTS ABOUT ABUSE: (according to NCADV, WHO, huffingtonpost) Every 9 seconds in the US, a woman is assaulted or beaten. On average, nearly 20 people per minute are physically abused by an intimate partner in the United States. During one year, this equates to more than 10 million women and men. Women between the ages of 18-24 are most commonly abused by an intimate partner. Recent global prevalence figures indicate that about 1 in 3 (35%) of women worldwide have experienced either physical and/or sexual intimate partner violence or non-partner sexual violence in their lifetime. Domestic victimization is correlated with a higher rate of depression and suicidal behavior. Number of U.S. troops killed in Afghanistan and Iraq: 6,614: Number of women, in the same period, killed as the result of domestic violence in the US: 11,766 Although this issue affects both men and women, statistics show that women are more affected by abuse. This issue affects both men and women, statistics show that women are more affected by abuse. Statistics show that although there is a male victim, more than half of the victims are female. The victim rates can be very high when children are involved. A child may become a victim if their parent becomes violent in front of them. Socially, the target of an intimate partner is considered to be devalued and not to be treated the same as his or her peers. Factors that could be the causes of

What's new in Heavy Dreams:

) on the feast days of St. Barnabas, Bishop, of the fourth century. It was published in 1740, under the title, Op. Coelorum Omnium, and is said to contain three miscellaneous pieces, the name of the composer is cited in the title. This cantata concerns a period in the life of the saint, from his conversion to the date of his repose. On each of the five movements there are abundant quotations from the Bible, from Luke's Gospel, and from the lives of his predecessors in the order of his feast. The chief allusions are those to the importance of St. Paul's conversion and to the zeal of his converts. In the opening movement there is a quote from Isaiah, 1:10, with which the whole piece commences. The first song is a hymn to the most high God: the second was designated by the composer to be sung by the choir in the church "already consecrated to God" on the night after his conversion, when St. Barnabas stayed in that place. The third movement is an anthem, and contains numerous other allusions to the chapters of Luke containing the story of the baptism of St. Barnabas. The first two movements are by Dussek, whose autograph score is at Florence, and the last is by Reusch. Dussek also wrote the Oboe Concerto in D, with the Third Concerto for Oboe, Clarinet, and Violin, the Concerto for Two Oboes and Orchestra. His opera Hippolyte et le Phœnix dates from this period and is a semi-opera. In his Concerto for Brass, Dussek used a viola da gamba in place of a bassoon, which Bach had introduced to accompany a violist in a French composition to which he added a harpsichord part written for organ. In this new arrangement, Dussek had Mozarts oboe at his disposal and replaced the middle part originally written for a bassoon with a new bass part for viola da gamba. The spiritual director of Dussek in the composition of this work was Bach. The autograph manuscript for this Concerto was written down to the year 1777. Dussek was an inveterate friend of Mozart, the inscription on the fly leaf of the autograph manuscript begins: Previously it was a composer from Salzburg, namely, Franz Benda, who for
