In the game you play in teams of three and one of you moves simultaneously - either to kill a fire or to cast a spell, teleport or teleport yourself. As the game goes on you get points and more points gives you more power - while points also take you back to your "homebase".The number of points you need to reach a certain level depends on the team you are playing with and not on your own points. As the game goes on more and more traps spawn, sometimes with random colours, and get bigger as the game progresses. The success of the team is basically determined by the yellow dotted line, thus the closer the team is to it, the better the team does.
