error I am trying to use $http.get() to get a cross origin JSON from the word cloud API. The Word Cloud API does support cross origin requests, but is not working when trying to make a request. It returns the following error: XMLHttpRequest cannot load Origin is not allowed by Access-Control-Allow-Origin. I have tried two different solutions to the problem: Inspecting the HTTP headers with the browser (or firebug) Enabling CORS in the Word Cloud API Is there anything I missed when setting up the Angular server request? Here are my CORS headers, as captured by firebug A: There is a repository project that is serving access-control-allow-origin. I wanted to see this working, so I made a few changes to the project to make it work. The bottom line, change module.js from angular.module('plunker', ['ngResource']) To angular.module('plunker', ['ngResource']) Although this solution is good, it is open to manipulation by a malicious user. You would be better served with your own CORS servers which is a topic for another question and answer on SO.
