CONCLUSION 30 The judgment of the district court is AFFIRMED. 1 The "net benefit" standard is used in this opinion to refer to the calculation of benefits under the SIP, and not to benefits received under the CBA 2 The CBA further provides that the Company "shall have the sole authority and responsibility to select, train, assign and supervise all employees and apprentices engaged in the operation of the Project including the work of the skilled craft employees." 3 Because the Union does not challenge the Company's action in either case, the Union's decision not to appeal Haskins' discharge also would not constitute a waiver of its jurisdictional right to bring this action. See NLRB v. Eagle Material Handling, Inc., 558 F.2d 160, 161 (6th Cir.1977) 4 In 1980, the Company hired four workers to replace the discharged apprentices at the Canton Contracting Project. These workers had been hired on this project in October 1981 and had worked for the Company for more than one year prior to their hiring by the Company. The Company did not hire any new workers for this project at the time it discharged the plaintiffs. The district court found that this evidence did not support a finding that the plaintiffs were discharged because of their union activity. This finding is not challenged on appeal. 5 The Company argues in its brief that any relief sought must also be limited to a request for back pay because the plaintiffs are not entitled to reinstatement as a remedy. The Company relies on the Supreme Court's holding in NLRB v. Gullett Gin Co., 340 U.S. 361, 71 S.Ct. 337, 95 L.Ed. 337 (1951). This reliance is misplaced. Because the plaintiffs can recover under the protection of the NLRA they are not precluded
