Dear All, I want to post a book which is 2 years old, and I cannot understand the book. Need a high quality PDF file for this, one that is compatible with Calibre as these files can be converted to Kindle books. Book name: Naalai Kandam Tamil[Cholecystolithiasis (or choledocholithiasis). Apropos of 100 cases]. The authors performed a retrospective study of 100 consecutive cases of Choledocholithiasis seen over a period of seven years. The incidence of choledocholithiasis was found to be about 30% in this series. The rate of complications was almost equal to that of previous published series. No statistically significant variable could be found to be related to the complication rate. At the time of surgery there was a certain relationship between the type of preoperative complications and the complication rate. Hello, Friends, and Happy Monday! I hope your weekend was filled with rest and relaxation. We're a few days before the second half of the season of BattleBots, and we now have all the major matchups confirmed for the second half. Let's take a look at the starting field and the scenarios that will determine the winners for each bout. Here's the bracket and the weight-loss summary for the second half of the season: Note that there are three major weight-loss categories, with the biggest weight-loss being determined by the sum of the heaviest, second-heaviest, and third-heaviest robots. Each robot in the weight-loss category will fight for the category's heaviest robot. Here are the new robot matchups for the second half of the season: Hint: There are three weight-loss categories. With seven months of the season down, here's the state of the games for the second half of the season. The robots are in order of weight-loss, starting with the heaviest and working our way back. For those new to the show, the winner is the robot with the most points when each fight is over. We also have an overall winner, too, which is the robot that has the most total points over the entire season. This season we've broken new ground in terms of weight-loss, and the robots that have built to the max with their equipment and internal design are the ones that have been the most competitive. Good fights to you
