Connected Experience - Photoshop is even smarter. If you install the new Photoshop mobile app and connect to your image on iPhone or iPad, you can view it on your phone - and much more. Use Live Crop to trim and crop on your phone, rotate an image you've uploaded to Behance and add a text layer. You can even access all of the new AI filters powered by Adobe Sensei - which turns your photos into works of art. Adobe Sensei AI enables content creators to add more to the online experience: with new selection improvements, a new Delete and Fill tool, and the ability to add text to images and videos that are ported to the web as simple HTML. And new automatic enhancements help images look more professional. Photoshop's latest feature, Content Aware Fill, no longer requires an image to be converted to black and white before using. Users simply load an image into Photoshop and can go into Fill with one click. Areas of the image are blended with the surrounding content, revealing hidden areas and making details look realistic. No longer do users have to manually turn on Black and White Mode to eliminate the distraction of the underlying colors. Now, Photoshop gets smarter to help make the most of images. Once it activates Black and White Mode, it turns the image into a high dynamic range (HDR) image. The algorithm then processes the image and eliminates the blurring caused by the transition from colors to grayscale. The result: cleaner, richer, more vibrant images.

It is an image alignment tool. The tool uses all the data at your disposal to align two or three photos, making them blend together perfectly. Using the new hybrid photography workflow in Photoshop CC 2019. For example, you can take an image from a DSLR camera as the current layer, expose the image, and then continue with the photo editing process in Photoshop. More features improve performance, produce greater creativity, and make a complex tool easier to use. Every Photoshop release adds a sequence of important improvements to the workflow: keyframe adjustments, adjustment layers, fill and stroke effects, text tools, the Pathfinder, and compositing. The latest version of Photoshop ($1,999) introduces a new Camera Raw workflow, a new powerful selection tool for layers, and new advanced features for masks and adjustment layers, including the Enhanced Exposure Mask. For those who need to work in a browser, the latest version of Photoshop ($399) enables users to edit images online without leaving the desktop interface.

Compared to the entire design and engineering of an operating system, a high-end graphics processing unit, or a smartphone, the AI and machine learning engine is just one component. The entire engine and the coding libraries that utilize it have to be built, maintained, and deployed to a wide range of deployed hardware and software platforms. It's an incredibly complex and multilayered system. To date, Adobe has not set a firm time frame of this AI/Machine learning component becoming available in an Adobe product. But its inherent complexity, combined with the deep connections made between AI, hardware, and software development over the years, make this an incredibly complex and challenging task that leaves little room for mistakes. So for us, it is important to continue openly discussing the implications, challenges, and opportunities of the integration of AI, machine learning, and deep learning when integrating AI into our products. AI is the future for all of us. We must be open to explore how to best use this technology without resetting or disrupting the way we've done so for the past 50+ years. Right now, it is challenging to get started with Adobe's AI and Machine Learning capabilities. The resources you need to really understand these capabilities, how to use them in your workflows, and how to pass them on to others to learn are currently limited. While it is critical to master these tools to work with image editing software, it's also important to ensure that we provide the right tools, support, and settings to get you started. You can help us by providing feedback, ideas, questions, and challenges on the forums and in the comments below. Thank you!
