At least 70 people died in the Mumbai floods in October 2005. The Supreme Court has asked the Maharashtra government to consider Mumbai's preparedness to tackle floods and propose a new plan to manage the monsoon floods in the city. The top court sought a report from the government about Mumbai's preparedness to deal with the flood situation. The judges said the city has been experiencing floods for the past 15 years and there was need to devise a new plan. When the Supreme Court took suo motu cognisance of the Mumbai floods in 2005, it found that the city was "living under the threat of recurring floods". The bench headed by then Chief Justice YK Sabharwal had asked the government to fix responsibility for flood protection measures at the highest level. The court issued notice to the Maharashtra government, the Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation (BMC), the National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) and the National Crisis Management Committee. "We are not ruling out the possibility of it recurring," the bench, also comprising justices A K Pathak and BR Gavai, said. The next hearing will be on July 13. With the monsoon set to begin in a couple of weeks, Mumbai faces its most challenging flooding season. The city witnessed its worst monsoon flooding in 2005, when at least 70 people were killed. The total losses were pegged at Rs 8 billion. The Supreme Court is also looking into the December 2005 terror attacks that left 166 people dead and hundreds injured.
